| DARRON LANE, ET AL.            | § |                            |

Plaintiff Nazario Chavez, an inmate confined in the Eastham Unit of the Texas prison system, proceeding pro se and in forma pauperis, filed the above-styled and numbered civil rights lawsuit under 42 U.S.C. § 1983. The complaint was transferred to the undersigned with the consent of the parties pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 636(c).

Plaintiff now files his Motion for Entry of Default (docket entry #43). He contends that

“[m]ore than 20 days have elapsed since the date on w[h]ich the Defendants herein were served with summons and a copy of Plaintiff’s complaints, excluding the date thereof.” Motion at 1. He therefore seeks entry of default, presumably pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 55(a), which is prefatory to entering a default judgment pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 55(b), Plaintiff’s next logical step.

Rule 12(a) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure specifies that “[u]nless another time is specified by this rule. . . [a] defendant must serve an answer [] within 21 days after being served the summons and complaint[.]” In this case, the timing of Defendant’s responsive pleading was governed not by the explicit time of Rule 12(a), but by the Court’s Order to Answer issued February 13, 2012 (docket entry #36). See id. at 1 (“Defendant Darron Lane shall have thirty days from the receipt hereof within which to answer or otherwise plead to the Plaintiff’s complaint.”). Aside from the fact that Rule 12(a) permits a modification of the time for filing an answer, “a federal district court has both specific and inherent power to control its docket.” See Miller v. Thaler, 2011 WL 3209879, at *1 (5th Cir. July 28, 2011) (quoting In re United Markets Int’l, Inc., 24 F.3d 650, 654 (5th Cir. 1994)). That control includes modifications of filing and briefing schedules, either on motion or sua sponte. Here, the Court gave Defendant 30 days from the date of receipt in which to answer; therefore, the standard of 20 days from date of service cited by Plaintiff, see Motion at 1, is incorrect.

The Office of the Attorney General of Texas, on Defendant’s behalf, acknowledged receipt on March 1, 2012, giving Defendant until March 31, 2012, in which to file his answer. In fact, Defendant filed his answer on March 29, 2012. See docket entry #45. Therefore, Defendant’s answer is timely and there is no basis for an entry of default or Plaintiff’s ostensible next step, default judgment. It is therefore ORDERED that Plaintiff's Motion for Entry of Default (docket entry #43) is hereby DENIED. To the extent the motion might be construed as a motion for default judgment pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 55(b), it is also DENIED.

So ORDERED and SIGNED this 2 day of April, 2012.
